Ouishare Research Workshop - May 19, 2015, Paris

Ouishare, Nesta and ESCP are hosting a free day-long workshop for researchers interested in the collaborative economy to map current research and build a network for future collaboration. This event will precede Ouishare Fest, which brings together a wider community of practitioners to explore the collaborative economy.

The Ouishare research workshop seeks to establish a forum for discussing practices, theories and methods for the study of the collaborative (or sharing or peer) economy, setting the scene for the development of a joint research agenda on the topic.

Using 'collaborative economy' in the broadest sense of the term (see, for example, Ouishare's framework), we welcome researchers from a diverse range of disciplines, with interests spanning collaborative consumption, open knowledge, peer production, open source, makers movement, P2P finance, distributed and collaborative governance and block-chain applications.

Over the day, participants will have the opportunity to share their research interests, collaboratively map the landscape of current research, and consider ways to foster cooperation, organise events, and explore other opportunities.

Potential Workshop Discussions

In the spirit of openness, two of the workshop's sessions will be determined by participants. Topics might include (but are not restricted to) : threats and potentials of the collaborative economy ; collaborative organisational and governance models ; understanding collaborative business models ; sustainability and impact ; growth and scale ; case-studies and lessons learnt ; design strategies for the collaborative economy platforms ; challenges and opportunities for research ; empirical, theoretical, and critical methodologies, concepts and tools for the study of collaborative economy.
